M.I.A. Program

Spring is here! Spring is here! At least that's the song we heard at the fourth ward Mutual last Thursday when Velma Redd assisted the audience in turning up their phones and blowing the bird's nests from the whistles.

There were whistling birds and buzzing bees, spring hats and Junior Hoses. Candy sprites and elves danced in from Stirling and lest we forget the young man's fancy "Have I Told You Lately That I Love You?"

However, it didn't seem that every member viewed spring through our cosy glasses and we found a few people who were enjoying poor health and have become chronic croakers with whom this present time of spring weather disagreed. We even saw 20 or 30 years added to the brows of even our M.I.A. Executive as the Scouts presented their views of "Chronic Croakers".

But it isn't just the grown-up to have a terrible time, and our sympathy went out to the boy scout who had enjoyed a game of marbles and looked it, and justly complained about "Soap, the Oppressor."

The Sr. Scouts gave excuses to the fellow who never makes a friend of work in presenting "Manana."

Still others showed different symptoms of spring fever and they came out in the most unexpected ways, until they had the audience convinced that "It Might As Well Be Spring."

After an expression of gratitude from the two presidents for the support and assistance received in putting over the years work the rest of the evening was spent in dancing and eating which wound up the winter's activities and got the summer program off with a spring in its step.

U. of A. Concert Chorus Coming

The Raymond Lions Club are again bringing to Raymond, the University of Alberta Concert Chorus, which met with such acclaim in this district last year. The chorus will appear in the Stake House, Monday, May 10, at 8 p.m.

The chorus is under the direction of Richard S. Eaton of the Department of Fine Arts, at the U. of A. The work of this chorus has met with approval where ever they go as attested by the following quotations:

From the Edmonton Journal: "Warm, sparkling with the effervescence of youth, the University Mixed Chorus on Monday evening offered a variety program which was acclaimed by the audience of about 550 persons. So enthusiastic was the ovation which the student chorus received that prolonged applause kept the 140 singers on stage half an hour beyond the end of the program, thru eight encores."

The Varsity chorus, from the beginning of the program achieved a standard seldom attained by any amateur group. This is particularly significant when it is considered that the mixed chorus consists for the most part of voices previously untrained in choral work."

Tickets are now on sale from any member of the Lion's Club. Prices of admission are Adults .75¢ and Kids .50¢

The mother was having a hard time each day persuading her five-year old Dora about the health value of a bath. She decided to appeal to the very young lady's vanity.

"A daily bath" she coaxed "will give you a beautiful figure". Noticing the young one's skeptical look, the mother questioned: "Don't you believe me?"

"Yes I believe you", Dora promptly answered, "only Mom, have you taken a good look at a duck lately?"

HISTORY OF RAYMOND

By ELIZABETH KING

BOUGHT FIRST SHACK OF FLOUR

Willard Hobbs was born in England and came to Utah with his parents when he was 7 years old. He lived in Preston, Idaho. He came to Canada in the spring of 1901 and lived in Stirling until the 24th of May and then went to Cardston. He thought it was a better cattle country but he only stayed one winter. In the spring of 1902 he moved to Raymond where he built one of the first houses in the town and later on in the season he built a house in the north of the town. On the 22 of November 1902 my youngest brother Wilford was born. He was the 4th child blessed in the ward.

The next spring Will Hobbs bought a section of land from the Knight Sugar Co. which he farmed until he left the country in 1906. There are five children living, Mrs. Emma L. Peterson, Raymond, Lila Wilbeck Long Beach, George Hobbs, Los Angeles, Clarence, Long Beach and Wilford of Dallas Texas.

Twelve years ago when I was in Lethbridge in the hospital Mr. and Mrs. George Green came to see me and during our conversation Mr. Green told me my father bought the first sack of flour that went thru' the mill. He said he told him the next one would be better but father said, no, this one will do. We really had some good times and plenty of pioneer life.

My father passed away in January of 1933. He was 76 years old.

Mrs. C. D. Peterson.

THE PALMER FAMILY

William M. Palmer was born in Lee County, Iowa, after his family had been driven from Nauvoo by the mob. He was born in a little cabin with a leaky roof and dirt floors which probably belonged to a trapper. His parents made the trip across the plains and settled in Ogden.

When a young child he contracted the pink eye and was treated by a doctor who put copper-sulphate in his eyes and caused him to go blind. He was blind for seven years and then his sight restored by the administration of Heber C. Kimball and another Elder. During his blindness his mother taught him the Bible. When he grew to manhood he became a powerful and wonderful preacher. He could still quote chapter after chapter from the Bible that his mother had taught him as a child. A story is told of him that as he grew older and became quite near sighted, that he would often pick up the Bible from the pulpit when he was preaching and read from it upside down. He was called on a mission to what was then the North Western States Mission but what is now the Northern States Mission. He spent eleven years doing missionary work and much of this time he presided over this mission. He married Helen Christine Larson, who was born in Sweden and came to America with her parents when she was three years of age. They lived in Isanti, Minn. and later the Larson's moved to Utah.

She had a family of small children when her husband was away doing missionary work. He travelled without purse or script and she managed to gain a living from the farm for herself and children. After he returned from his mission he spent several years travelling in Utah and Idaho preaching to the young people.

The Palmer family came to Raymond in March, 1903. They landed in Stirling at one a.m. and stayed at the Stirling hotel overnight. Parley, who had come a year before came to Stirling in a demerit and brought the family to Raymond. The wind was there to meet them blowing with its unusual force. The family stayed at the home of Brig Pickett for a few days and the Christopher Nilsson, with Parley's help fixed up two rooms for the family in the new Nilsson home.

Besides William Palmer and wife there were Melvin, Asel, Ada, Marion Leslie, Glen and Arlo. Also Sister Palmer's father and her brother John Larson and Ethel and Roscoe Mrs. Larson and Helen Palmer came in June. If you count the same way as I do that made 36 people, with Parley, Delbert and Min, who were already here, in two unfurnished rooms.

One day while they were living here, Asel was sent to get a bucket of water from the barn for dinner. He was gone so long, that someone else got the water and dinner continued.

ued. When he finally came in and was asked about the delay he told them he had been to Stirling. This seemed a ridiculous fact and when he was quizzed further replied that his hat had blown off and he had to go clear to Stirling before he could retrieve it.

Later brother Palmer bought a farm and the family moved there and lived in a cook shack and a large government army tent. Farming operations started and they began to break the land in preparation for planting the crops when the famous May blizzard struck. It snowed and the wind blew for three days. Of course there were no fences and their forty head of cows and heifers drifted with the wind and snow. One cow who had a young calf stayed at the farm and all the others were lost. After the storm was over they went hunting them and recovered twenty head strong all the way from here to Montana.

The first years wheat crop was very poor but they raised enough wheat for their bread and they raised a good garden.

They built a house in town the first summer that they were here and it was their home for many years.

Helen came up in the summer of 1902. She had been unable to come with the family because she was teaching school. She lived on the farm with the family for two years and then she married John Harding. They had three children Bill, Lola and Helen who was born May 13, 1911. Her mother died four hours later and young Helen was raised by her grandmother Palmer.

Lola married Calvin Layton, Bill married Jennie Johnson and Helen married Jesse Attwood. Parley Palmer married Ella LaBaron. They moved to Barnwell after Edwin was born and settled on a farm and it was there that Nellie, Edwin, Ruth, Afton Eldon and Lauran were born. Afton died when he was a child. Nellie married H. Gibb of Rosemary, Edwin married Lillian Meeks.

Parley took a course in carpentry at the A.C. of Logan Utah and he followed up the building trade most of his life. He was the irrigation master at Barnwell. For many years he was stake chairman of the genealogical committee at Barnwell. Later he moved to Rosemary and at present he is living at Taber with his son Edwin.

Marion came up with the family and in 1906 he married Carrie Lee. For several years he worked for the Knight Sugar Co. and then he moved to Blackie in 1910. While there he worked as ward clerk and with the Boy Scouts. He farmed there and later returned to Raymond. They had eight children Mary, Zella, Merrill, Maureen, Lee, Gerald, Eva Elaine, Ardel and Mildred who died in infancy. Lee died in Utah in 1937 and Gerald was lost during the war ferrying planes from Ottawa to Patricia Bay, B.C. for the Air Force in 1941. Later the occupants were found and buried and a karon was raised in their memory.

Delbert and Melvin, both grown young men died in the same year, one in the summer and one in the winter.

Wilford W. Palmer was a steam engineer and worked at his trade for years. He homesteaded at Turin and later came back to Raymond where he spent the remainder of his life. He was killed in a car accident in 1931. Wilford was always kind and generous and gave much of his time and means helping people in need.

Asel, who came with his father, grew to young manhood and finished his high school in Raymond. He was the first president of the M.I.

A. in the second ward. During the years 1913 to 1917 he attended the Logan University where he obtained his degree. In 1916 he married Maydell Cazier. They had four children, Delbert, who married Maybell Johnson, Camille (Mrs. W. Hawkins of Oregon), Aileen (Mrs. Elton Smith of California), and Byron. Asel taught school in Raymond in 1918 and 1919. He was Stake president of Y.M.M.I.A. from 1919 to 1921 when he moved to Lethbridge and became assistant superintendent of the Experimental Farm. He was also counselor to Hugh B. Brown for 5 years and was Stake president in 1926. He held this position until 1917 when he was released. He is now Superintendent of the Experimental Farm.

The second daughter Ada married Clarence O'Brien in 1908. They had six children, Helen (Mrs. Evan Sabey), Marie (Mrs. DeVoe Matkin), Delman, who married Martha Sholtz Sylvia, who died in 1917, Nova and Clayton.

Clarence died in June 1922. Ada was left with a family of small children, however she gave much of her time to the Church. She has taught classes in Primary, Religion Class, Sunday school, M.I.A. and Relief Society. She was president of the Primary for six years in the 2nd ward and later worked on the Stake Board for three years.

In 1941 Ada was married to the Ogill.

Leslie grew up with the others on the farm in the summer and came with the family into town and school in the winter. He was president of the deacons quorum, president of the Teachers and secretary of the priests. He filled a mission in the North Western States where his father had labored so many years before. He met many of his fathers converts. When he returned from his mission in 1919, he was made president of the M.I.A. In 1920 he married Florella Love. They have had six children, Leland Love, La Monte, who married Jean Duce Harrison (Rud), the twins Donna Rae and Mona Rae, and Geraldine

The first boy died in infancy. In 1924 he was made counselor to Bishop Walker. He held this position until 1941 when he was made Bishop of the Second ward and was Bishop until May, 1947 when he was taken into the Stake presidency as second counselor which position he still holds.

Arlo filled a mission to the Eastern States. When he returned he married Zina Heninger. They have had five children Donna Jean (Mrs. Donald McLean), Norma, Arlene, Douglas, and Diana, who died in infancy. Arlo was assistant post office master for several years and then they moved to Wrentham where he was presiding Elder. Later he worked for the Logan Knit and moved to Regina, Saskatchewan and Hamilton When he returned he settled in Calgary where he was in charge of the Genealogical work. He was made Patriarch of the Lethbridge Stake in 1915, which office he still holds. He has moved to Rosemary where he now lives and operates a farm. (To be continued next week.)

IT'S NO HONEYMOON

Judging from the countless inquiries, misconceptions and stories in circulation, including rumors or higher prices being in the making and shortages likely to come as a result of the effects on Canada of the operations of the so-called now famous Marshall Plan for European Economic Recovery, it is important to tell the man in the street that many of these are nothing more than mere rumors based on speculation since so far "on the spot" in Ottawa officials have been extremely cautious in making any commitments or even forecasts what ERP will actually mean in detail to Canada. The man in the street should know the whole truth and that is the situation is still under review. It is expected to be for some time yet.

What is known in reliable quarters here is that the fundamental principle of ERP is to build up the economies of certain European countries and raw materials as well as machines rather than many finished products will likely be most in demand for this objective. Of course, it is learned that some "straight relief" as one official put it, will be needed but the all-important point, is that this whole ERP aims at putting these countries back on their feet so that it is a good guess that the quantities of goods possibly sought from Canada will eventually turn out to be far different or lower than rumors seem to suggest.

This is reported because there appears to be growing belief in many parts of Canada that ERP will provide a honeymoon for Canadian suppliers, thought this is not correct, nor does it justify any excuse to anticipate shortages or price boosts, even if official efforts, it is hinted here are being made to increase all Canadian exports under ERP or otherwise. It is also evident here that under ERP there may be minor increases in the quantities of Canadian exports overseas of certain commodities, one official estimates here predicting 10%, but the significant change will still be in the financing of such exports rather than the quantities. Indeed this is why so many salesmen or business men are reported already to have come to Ottawa for "orders" or to look around though they are now leaving rather disappointed, especially since it is understood that the ERP plan is to build up certain countries by immediate "straight relief" where this is essential or otherwise supply them with necessary foodstuffs, railway equipment, farm implements, fertilizers, machines etc. Obviously this should tell the man

JUST IN CASE

Since this is a "peace" year observations along Parliament Hill about defence preparations and other activities certainly stress the dangerous state of affairs in the world today, particularly for anyone whose memory of such preparations in other critical periods is still fresh. There is doubt what these mean in these days of "war nerves."

It is crystal clear that this preparedness is a sign of the times "just in case", even if this is officially a "peace" year.

Among the signs of these most unusual activities for a "peace" year it is now known that Canada has named two of her leading scientists to take part in meetings of the Commonwealth Advisory Committee on Defence Science in London; the Canadian Government has boosted its estimates for defence research this year to $15,997,392 against $13,031,834 last year as well as provided an "open ended" bank account of at least $20,000,000 for the Defence Department "just in case". Dr. Varney Bush, President and Chairman of the Carnegie Institute and of the Research and Development Board respectively under U.S. secretary of Defence, has visited Ottawa for conferences and inspection of the National Research Council, looking in on Chalk River's atomic energy activities; "universal voluntary" military training has been suggested in the House of Commons by an MP. There have been other significant developments suggesting preparedness in defence matters "just in case".

FREEDOM OF SPEECH

During a noisy debate on a public bill, Speaker Gaspard Fauteux, requesting the members not to interrupt the member who had the floor of Parliament and bearing in mind the heated all day debate on human rights as well as fundamental freedoms the previous day, remarked "It should not be necessary to pass a bill to guarantee freedom of speech in this chamber".

DISHONORABLY DISCHARGED CASES

Under the War Service Grants Act, a five-man board of review was established to consider whether veterans dishonorably discharged should be granted gratuities and re-establishment credits. The board granted the gratuities to 4,752 of these and refused the grants to 2,814 others, having still 322 cases to study. Once the board's work was completed, it is understood here it would be discharged and a committee of officers of the Veterans Department would be established to consider any new evidence presented in cases where the veterans have been refused grants, with a bill providing for dismissal of the board of review and the appointment of such a departmental committee having been adopted here.

SAID IN THE CAPITAL
"This is one of the freest countries in the world", remarked Justice Minister Hsley in the House of Commons. "It had nothing to be ashamed of by comparison with any of the nations."

"The butter business is highly competitive and you might almost say cut throat" commented a witness before the Prices Committee of Parliament, Henry L. Walters of A.A. Ayer and Co. dairy dealers of Montreal.

"The freest people of the earth fear the results of another war and are willing to go to almost any extreme to prevent it", said Fleet Admiral William Halsey in this capital.

"We know that in Canada there are Communists at work, endeavoring to stir up discord and discontent declared State Secretary Gibson during an address here.

"Unless we feed the starving children of Europe, they will be our enemies" said Mrs. Jean Henshaw who spent two and a half years in Europe with UNRRA. "If we feed them they may be our friends of tomorrow."

"Thus, our two countries are brought closer together", remarked the Italian Minister to Canada, Count Carlo Feola di Cossato, pointing out the aid which Canada has given to the people of Italy.

WEEKLY WIND-UP
Canadian business and industry are showing intense interest in supplying the Canadian Government or other agencies with goods believed necessary for the U.S. Marshall Plan, judging from the inquiries reaching officials here and the actual salesmen coming to this capital with this objective.

In regard to the anticipated heavy movement of immigrants to Canada this year it is learned that at least 50% of them may be from the U. Kingdom when arriving by air transportation.

Appointment of H. J. Mather

On behalf of the Line Elevator Companies sponsoring this Department, we take pleasure in announcing the appointment of Mr. H. J. Mather, B.Sc., as Assistant to Director, Line Elevators Farm Service. Mr. Mather succeeds Mr. E. Robertson who recently accepted the position of District Seed Analyst, Plant Products Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture at Winnipeg. It is most gratifying to us that Mr. Robertson, the officer in charge of our own seed testing laboratory, should be selected for a post of such importance and responsibility in the Canadian seed testing field.

Mr. Mather is no stranger to Western Canadian agriculture. He was raised on a farm and educated in Alberta. Specializing in soil science, he obtained the degree of Bachelor of Science in Agriculture from the University of Alberta in 1933. After his graduation Mr. Mather was engaged in soil survey work in Alberta, and from 1939 to 1942 occupied the position of Supervisor of Illustration Station, Dominion Experimental Stations, Lethbridge and Lacombe, Alberta. In 1942, Mr. Mather accepted the position of Supervisor of Soil Conservation and Weed Control with the Provincial Department of Agriculture, Edmonton; a position he filled with distinction until his recent appointment.

As technical advisor to the newly established Chemical Division, Line Elevators Farm Service, Mr. Mather will be in a position to assist prairie farmers with their chemical weed control problems. In this work he will be assisted by some 2,500 Line Elevator country grain buyers throughout Western Canada. Mr. Mather's sound training, wide experience and recognized ability in dealing with two of Western Canada's most important and pressing agricultural problems—Soil Conservation and Weed Control—qualify him well for his new position.

WEEKLY LETTER HINTS ON DRY LAND VEGETABLE GARDENING

Through the years of dry land vegetable garden investigations, certain fundamental principles have been evolved at the Experimental Station, Lethbridge. The most important of these are Wind Protection and Moisture Conservation. Therefore it would seem advisable to pass on some of the known information which may assist farmers to raise better vegetable gardens and to give encouragement to those who have failed or are just beginning. Another reason for wanting to assist growers to raise good vegetables, is that vegetable gardening is a financially sound investment during these days of high cost of living and adds materially to the every day human diet of the farm.

Dry land gardens must be protected from the wind not only to decrease evaporation but to protect the tender vegetable plants from physical damage. The best means of protection is to plant rows of shrubs, other evergreens or lilacs on the windward sides of the garden. Where shrubs are too small or do not exist, shelter can be provided with snow fences. Not only do wind breaks protect the garden during the growing season but act as snow traps in the winter, causing snow to drift onto the garden area.

Moisture conservation embraces several operations which are very important to dry land gardening. If at all possible moisture should be stored in the soil in advance of the cropping year. That means that one-half of the garden area should be summer-fallowed where soil drifting does not play havoc with the garden area and the other one-half seeded to vegetable crops.

Another important part of moisture conservation is weed control. Weeds compete vigorously with the seeded plants, for available moisture supply, with the result that the less hardy vegetable plants are robbed of moisture by the weeds. The destruction of weeds can be done with shallow cultivation before the weeds have taken too much moisture.

Moisture can be conserved also by spacing the rows far enough apart so that the competition between vegetables for moisture will not be too severe. In other words the rows should be at least double distance apart that they would be under irrigation.

The following less important suggestions may add further to the success of dry land vegetable gardening.

1. Apply well rotted manure at the rate of twenty tons per acre in the fall and then fall plow.
2. Prepare the seed bed as early as the land will allow it in the spring, so as to finally have a firm friable seed bed.
3. Grow certified seed and varieties that are approved for your locality. Reference should be made to the Recommended Horticultural Varieties and Zonation Map for Alberta, obtainable from the district Agriculturalist or the nearest Experimental Station.

My Week

by R. J. Deuchman

You may recall a story I wrote about Senator Vandenberg—not one of our own Senators—they rarely tear up the gravel—but the well-known Senator from Michigan. Vandenberg is a remarkable illustration of a man, who has seen a new light and walked in it. He was an immovable rock-ribbed Republican. He was an isolationist, he was a high protectionist. He believed that all the average American had to do was to stay within his own country, work like hell and grow rich. Then came a change in mind and heart. It is only lately that I have seen what seems like a natural explanation of what happened to him.

Senator Vandenberg has been a real worker from his youth up. He is a thinker and applies himself to his tasks with great earnestness. He is not an office seeker. That is to say he is not naturally an aspirant for the Presidency of the United States. He would take it, I imagine if circumstances compelled him but when I met him years ago in Washington and put this up to him he gave a positive and emphatic "no" and said he hadn't the slightest desire to become President of the United States, he wanted to do his work where he was and make a good job of it.

Times change—all this was ten years ago—it's different now. James Reston, one of the best known news paper men of America and a regular writer for the New York Times recently gave this explanation:

"Mr. Vandenberg's philosophy was changed primarily by the V-1 and V-2 attacks on Britain in 1944. The devilish cunning and the enormous possibilities of the robot bomb shook his faith in the old conception of oceanic protection. This invention shattered his isolationist prejudice and opened his mind to a new foreign policy."

Mr. Reston goes on to say that he has freed his mind from all presidential ambitions and:

"With a free mind and a firm conviction that he was not even going to seek reelection to the Senate in 1946, he began to ponder the great question of peace and America's role in the world."

Now a strange thing happened. In his skillful handling of the American aid program, in his new breadth of vision which arises from looking at things whole instead of in part, Senator Vandenberg has stepped naturally into a higher level of statesmanship than if he had followed his own point of view. There is the possibility that the new light he has gained on world problems the Senator may find himself confronted by a definite call to assume the responsibilities of the presidency.

Even so shrewd an observer as Walter Lippman pointed this out the other day and referred to him as the most effective figure in American post-war foreign affairs. He points out that Vandenberg has followed the path that the old Republicans do not like to take but nevertheless have to take, and as they look at the honor and affection in which Senator Vandenberg is now held they can see that changing one's point of view is not so disagreeable after all—policies do become outmoded—they gain from the "new look."

Politicians do not regard highly men who change their political and economic viewpoints but where the change has not taken place in the man but has taken place in the party and where he has been one of the leaders in the movement to lead the party from darkness into light they must face the facts and look at things from a different angle. The change of attitude could not have taken place if it had not been one of a genuine conviction. The Senator is not a man who would shift his ideas with every wind that blows, he is thoroughly convinced that he is as right in his present attitude as he was right in his former position. He knows that the world has changed—"states like men have destinies that take them, not knowing why nor where". The same man will not stand forever in the last ditch fighting for a lost cause.

When asked if External Affairs Minister St. Laurent has met with representatives of Soviet Russia since he had become head of this Department, he replied that it "is not in accordance with diplomatic practice nor in the national interest to disclose the nature of official conversations with representatives of other countries", though in the absence of a Soviet Russian Ambassador here any such talks would have been with the charge d'affaires or members of the staff and members of his department.

A.M.A. FIGHTS MOVE TO INSTALL METERS

Strong fight against the installation of parking meters in Edmonton was made by the local branch of the Alberta Motor Association. The city council has decided to install them for a year's experiment. The branch maintains that this will be only an additional levy on motorists now heavily tax burdened. It contends that meters have been revenue getting mediums in other cities and many have abandoned the system.

In Edmonton it is claimed by the A.M.A. branch that the meters will take $100,000 a year out of the motorist and still require the cost of policing to enforce regulations. The branch maintains that the city should develop off-street parking areas. It has been considered the possibility of securing such extra parking space itself in order to help relieve the situation.

Strong representations were made to the city council by the A.M.A. which joined with other bodies to fight the installation of meters. It claimed that meters do not provide a solution for the parking problem.

CEMENT SAWDUST CONCRETE

Cement sawdust concrete provides a warmer, softer and drier floor for poultry houses, pigsties and barns, than ordinary concrete. Its weight is about one-third that of ordinary concrete, and its high shock absorbing qualities make it very desirable for floors of animal shelters. Cement sawdust concrete is a mixture of portland cement, sawdust and water, with a portion of sand often added to increase resistance to wear. Its uses and how to make it are described in detail in a booklet entitled "Cement-Sawdust Concrete", now available from the Extension Service, Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.
